

The naming of a portion of Highway 69 in Overland Park, Kansas would recognize 2LT Justin Sisson's ultimate sacrifice for his country. 2LT Sisson's ethics, leadership, and dedication to duty provide an extraordinary example of selfless service. Justin's commitment to duty affords an example for our local communities, state and every individual in our Nation. The naming of a portion of Highway 69 in Justin's memory would serve as a permanent reminder to future generations that our great nation exists due to heroes willing to sacrifice their last full measure of devotion. The naming would forever immortalize the leadership and dedication to duty Justin exemplified every day of his life.

2LT Sisson exemplified ethics, leadership and dedication to duty beyond that of his peers. Justin's values quickly influenced his peers and subordinates alike upon arrival in the battalion. His example inspired others to accomplish exceedingly more than required and commit their personal excellence to the undertaking at hand. 2LT Sisson's maturity, remarkable attitude, and self-confidence led to his selection as our Liaison Officer during the 1-506th Infantry's "relief in place" in Afghanistan during 2013. Justin was selected over numerous senior Lieutenants and Captains as a result of his unsurpassed leadership and reputation within the battalion staff. Self-motivated and displaying infinite pride in everything he touched, he immediately earned the respect of the Red Currahee battalion. 2LT Justin Sisson's ethics, leadership and dedication to duty set the definitive standard for his community and our Nation.

A country and community needs heroes to inspire and bring to mind that sacrifice requires giving of one's self and possessing a servant's heart. The naming of a portion of Highway 69 would enable a community, and all those transiting the community, the opportunity for reflection. This reflection upon the blessings of our country springs forth from a son, a soldier, and a leader who paid the last full measure of devotion for his soldiers and his country. There is no finer example, and no one more deserving, than 2nd Lieutenant Justin Sisson to provide this opportunity for reflection. He will provide a reminder within his community of belief in one's country and a commitment to a cause greater than one's self. The naming of a portion of Highway 69 will allow Justin's community to pay tribute to a remarkable leader with a servant's heart.

A Hero's sacrifice is that of an individual. Justin's sacrifice, and the naming of a portion of Highway 69 in his honor, would enable individuals the opportunity to learn about his life. Without a doubt, Justin's story and sacrifice would positively influence others. His example of ethics, leadership and dedication to duty grants immense opportunities for inspiration. Justin's legacy will motivate individuals to achieve greater heights and provide a superior depth of appreciation of the weight of a hero's sacrifice.

The naming of a portion of Highway 69 in Overland Park, Kansas honoring 2LT Justin Sisson would recognize the significance of his devotion to our nation. Justin's story motivates all acquainted with it to emerge as a better father, mother, son or daughter. There is no finer example, no one more deserving, than 2nd

Lieutenant Justin Lee Sisson to provide his community cause for reflection. The naming of a portion of Highway 69 will allow the community and our nation to honor, remember and acknowledge a hero who will provide a lasting example of selfless service.

Gregory B. Beaudoin
Lieutenant Colonel, Infantry
Student, The National War College
Commander, 1-506th Infantry
December 2011- April 2014