Conferees appearing before the committee:

The Chairperson called the organizational meeting to order at 3:30 P.M. and stated the meetings will start on time, at 3:30 P.M., even if only two people are in attendance. A timer will be used and conferees will be limited to five minutes and 4 pages of typewritten testimony. A timer will be used and the meetings will last for one hour and we will adjourn at 4:30 P.M.

Conferees will not read testimony verbatim but will give a synopsis of their testimony.

When the committee walks into this room, there is a job to be done and it will be done in a fair manner. I will not give any surprises and I do not want any surprises.

The Agendas will be prepared on Mondays for the following week. The tough issues will be pursued before the end of February because then we are all going to be very busy.

The first item of business will be interstate banking. It is very important and want to get that behind us. Interstate banking will be addressed January 29 and 30. On January 29 there will be testimony from proponents from 3:30 to 5:00 P.M. and on January 30, there will be testimony from opponents. On January 31, there will be introduction of committee bills. All bills will be introduced by a member of the House or a State Agency. Lobbyists will not introduce bills. On February 4 there will be a one-hour meeting with the FDIC, Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Reserve Board.

The last day we will talk about interstate banking will be February 7 and each conferee will be allowed 15 minutes of time to recap their testimony. Before February 6 I will talk to individuals and if there are not enough votes I will not run the bill out of Committee. Interstate banking will be given a reasonable length of time and when it is over it is over. The only way it will come back up is if the Speaker or Majority Leader request it.

Protocol of the meetings was passed out.

Chairperson Gross introduced the interstate banking bill. There was no further discussion and it was a unanimous decision to accept the bill as a committee bill.

The meeting adjourned at 4:00 P.M.
