Advanced voting in Kansas is safe, secure, and has been used widely by Kansans for decades. There is strong bipartisan support for the 3 day grace period, and eliminating it would restrict already marginalized populations even more from casting their ballot, including rural, aging, and/or disabled voters who rely on the post office to make their voices heard. Lawmakers should do everything they can to make voting more accessible, not restrict it. It's vital that all citizens have as much access to voting as possible!

Chairman Thompson, I'm a voter in Wyandotte County. I'm writing to share my oppositions to SB 365. I encourage you to vote no!

Our democracy depends on all citizens having as much access to voting as possible.

As a mother of small children, I've used mail-in ballots to ensure I could vote regardless of time and schedule and childcare availability. Because I could vote by mail, I was able to participate and share my voice in the future of my community.
