opponents generally stated concerns about the timeliness of mail delivery by the U.S. Postal Service and that valid votes cast on or before election day would no longer be counted if the deadline is changed.

Written-only opponent testimony was provided by representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union of Kansas, the Disability Rights Center of Kansas, Health Forward Foundation, Kansas African American Affairs Commission, Kansas County Clerks and Election Officials Association, Kansas Interfaith Action, League of Women Voters of Kansas, United Community Services of Johnson County, and Voter Rights Network of Wyandotte County and 45 private citizens.

Neutral testimony was provided by a representative of the Secretary of State.

No other testimony was provided.

Fiscal Information

According to the fiscal note prepared by the Division of the Budget on the bill, the Secretary of State indicates it would use existing resources to update training materials for local election officials and update educational and promotional materials for the public with the new deadline.

The Kansas Association of Counties indicates the bill could increase the number of potentially invalidated ballots that arrive late via mail, which could increase costs for counties if there are disputes or questions that the counties would have to process, but is unable to estimate a fiscal effect.
