Age change

I agree with the ages, the only difference between a 12-18 month olds is their vocabulary. Also, Some families dont space out their kids far enough. They want them closer in age. Taking them to 2 different providers is just not an option.

Consulting the providers does not mean we were inadequate. It could be just letting us know of a new rule or giving a suggestion. When this info is posted online it makes us look like there must have been a problem in that area and needed to be adressed. Which is completely not true.

There are so many illegal providers out there! Maybe you should be focusing more on them, since they will be the ones that will not follow any rules and could put children in danger. We need to keep these little ones safe. They need to be in a healthy environment. Who knows what goes on behind those closed doors!

Young lives are taken to often in this world today!
