

Responsibility-Centered Discipline

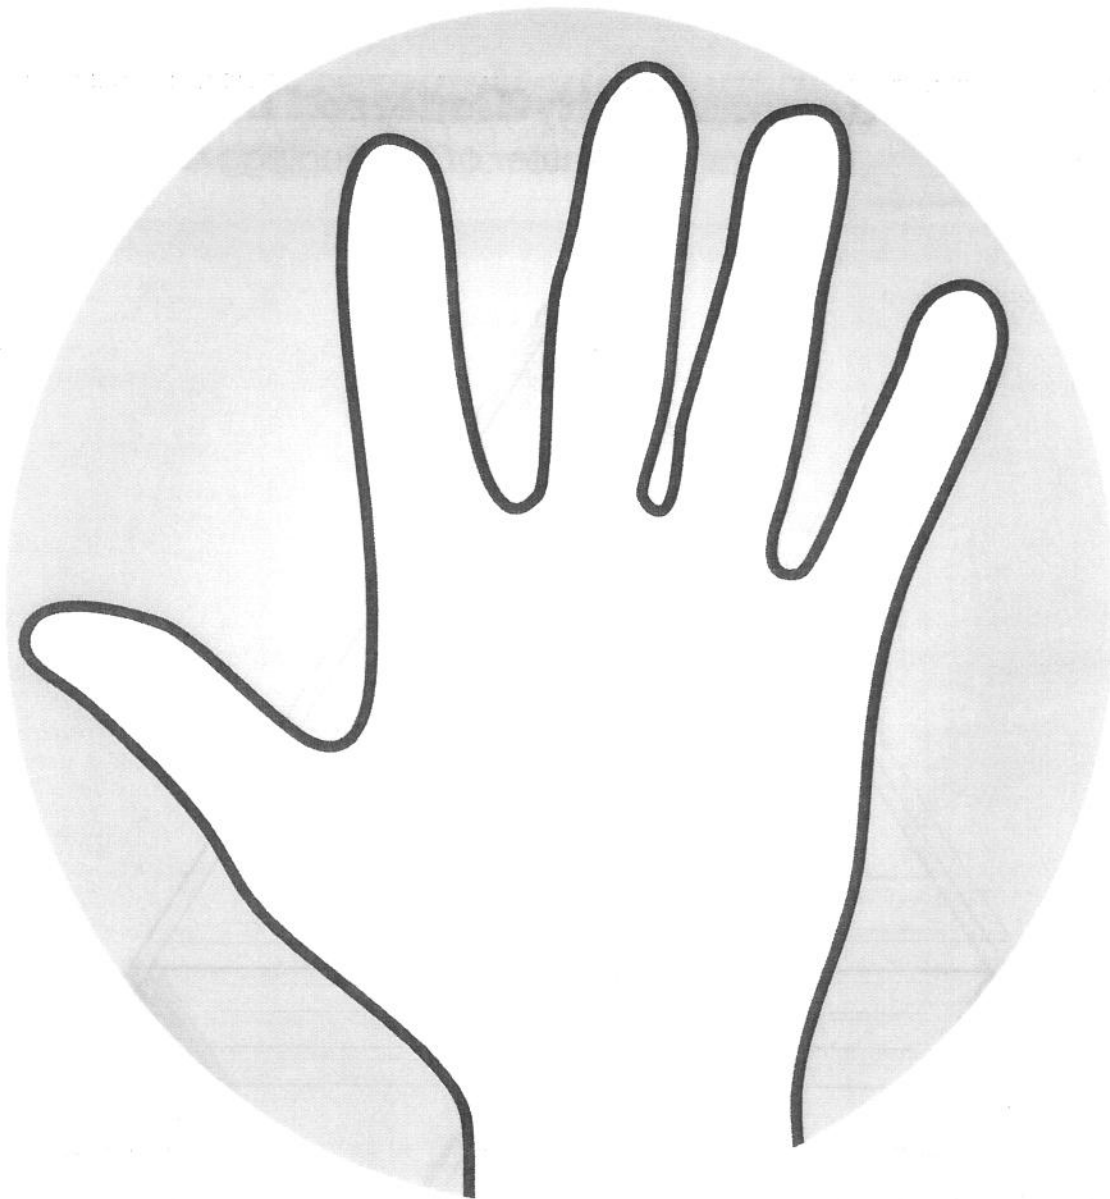

Becoming a Master of Challenging Moments

About Responsibility-Centered Discipline

Most schools fail to get lasting change in behavior because students seldom feel responsibility for their actions. Responsibility-Centered Discipline was created by Larry Thompson to help educators create a culture of self-responsibility. In an RCD school, educators collaborate to identify values and skills that they want students to take with them – such as respect, honesty, effort and academic competencies. These values and skills form a common language to help educators address challenging moments with students and to create a culture of responsibility.

"Give 'em Five"

Responsibility-Centered Discipline is a cooperative educational effort between Developmental Resources Inc. and LOL Consulting LLC.

Upcoming Developmental Resources Events | www.dev-resources.com

Social Media in Schools Symposium
February 19-20
Atlantic City

Wired Differently Seminar
March 6
Baltimore

Innovative Counseling Strategies Conference
June 20-22
Atlanta

Wired Differently Conference
June 20-22
Atlanta

Girl Bullying Conference
June 30 - July 2
Las Vegas

School Discipline Conference
June 30 - July 2
Las Vegas