

People that can drive legally can work and pay taxes. I spent a year in jail for traffic violations and have already lost everything because of it. Is that not enough punishment, when does this end? More needs to be done to insure that punishment is not used to make the lives of the punished unbearable and impossible. This jeopardizes our future as a free country and a proud people. Please look at this issue, it traps us in quicksand forever.

I could afford to pay the remainder of the fines had I received credit for time spent in jail. There was no financial reduction of the fines even after doing the entire sentence. If I could afford to pay the remainder of the fines I would not have to spend my life running and hiding. I could be a father rather than an absentee parent. I could be a helpful son instead of a needy one. I could be gainfully employed instead of a worthless bum on the streets that cannot help anyone even myself.

All I want is to be given the opportunity to be a productive member of society. Now , I am just another jail statistic and casualty of this racket we call the justice system.

Thanks for your time.

Russ

House Transportation
Date: 1-30-13
Attachment # 7