

Hazmat Endorsement Exemption for Custom Harvester Employees; SB 349

SB 349 exempts a person holding a commercial class A driver's license and acting within the scope of the person's employment as an employee of a custom harvester operation to operate a service vehicle transporting 1,000 gallons or less of diesel from obtaining a hazardous materials endorsement for that driver's license. The vehicle must be clearly marked with a "flammable" or "combustible" placard, as appropriate. The law had limited transportation of diesel fuel to 119 gallons in a tank without the driver having a hazardous materials endorsement.