

Journal of the House

FIFTY-SEVENTH DAY

HALL OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
TOPEKA, KS, Friday, April 7, 2017, 11:00 a.m.

The House met pursuant to adjournment with Speaker Ryckman in the chair.

The roll was called with 122 members present.

Reps. Arnberger, Aurand and Houser were excused on excused absence by the Speaker.

Prayer by Chaplain Brubaker:

Almighty God,
We thank You for this day and for the beautiful sunshine.
As we draw near to the end of the session,
thank You for these leaders here
in the land of the Wizard of Oz,
who have fought hard for Citizen Kane
and all other citizens of Kansas.
Some of the bills presented were eaten up quickly by Jaws, while others were Gone with the Wind or Cast Away.
Sometimes the discussions seemed as long as
From Here to Eternity.
Some decisions may have taken people
by The Blind Side,
others may have taken us Back to the Future.
A couple of the issues brewed like The Perfect Storm, while others might have been presented like the Bourne Ultimatum.
But when all has been said and done,
our desire is that the decisions made for the people are ones that will help them believe It's A Wonderful Life.
Continue to lead and guide today.
In Christ's Name, Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Rep. Highberger.

INTRODUCTION OF GUESTS

There being no objection the following remarks of Rep. Brim are spread upon the Journal:

Autism Awareness Month marks an important time for individuals, families and communities to honor and unite for many reasons.

Our children and their families remind us each day of the gains that have been made in understanding and supporting those affected by Autism Spectrum Disorders, but also the enormous amount of work that remains to be done.

The phrase “Autism Awareness and Acceptance” can elicit many feelings, and today, I would challenge us all to consider what it truly means.

AWARENESS AND ACCEPTANCE IS TO BE OPEN, TO BE COMPASSIONATE AND MOST IMPORTANTLY, TO BE KIND.

Give a smile to the mom in the grocery store whose child is throwing a tantrum over the candy bar that she’s so desperately managing to keep him from.

Invite the child with autism to your child’s birthday party and make sure that those parents know that their child is genuinely welcome—whether it be for five minutes, for an hour or maybe hopefully, the entire time.

If a child falls apart in your presence, ask that parent, “what can I do to make this better for you?”

Ask questions. Reserve judgment. Don’t assume you know more than you do.

Give your friend a hug or the squeeze of your hand when their child has the bravery to make it through a school performance. Be there for her with a shoulder to lean on, in her isolation, when he does not.

Teach your children about inclusivity, that it is not merely a concept or an accommodation but a lesson in how we treat others. It is a horrible feeling to be excluded and there are gifts of friendship to be found in all of us. Acceptance is not simply to tolerate one another but to value our differences and to recognize the strengths that lie within all people.

EVERYBODY HAS DIFFERENCES. ALL PEOPLE MATTER.

Work harder to reach out. Be kind. Teach your kids about the act of kindness and that kindness benefits everybody. Know that kindness needs to be taught and continuously reinforced. Be proactive to affect change. Imagine what you would want if the tables were turned.

Stand up for the rights of all people, whether your child is “neurotypical,” “quirky,” “special needs,” “disabled,” “differently abled,” different,” or any label. A label does not even begin to tell the whole story about a child, their family or, their strength in love.

Today, I have Melanie Gosch, Gus Gosch, Kim Wheeler, and Erica Minton with me representing Prairie Ridge Elementary.

I would like to recognize PRE: teachers, paras, Mr. Rex, administration, kitchen staff and the families. It takes a village and the students in the gallery are the fifth grade class and have made a community for Gus which has allowed him to experience success.
