

Rental car companies must comply with IRP and other Kansas law to register vehicles in state

What to know:

- Rental car companies in Kansas comply with IRP rules and other state laws to register vehicles used in Kansas.
 - Because of their membership with IRP, major rental car companies would not be able to forgo registration in one state to avoid paying property taxes upon vehicle purchase and registration.

What is IRP?

- The International Registration Plan (IRP) is a multi-state reciprocity agreement to determine how fleet vehicles are registered across majority of the United States and Canada.
- Registration fees for commercial vehicles like trucks are determined by the proportion of miles driven each state.

How rental car companies register vehicles in Kansas

- Rental car companies were granted admittance into the IRP with an amendment to the traditional IRP. Rental car companies are permitted to proportionally register vehicles in each state based on the company's revenue share generated in that state.
- In addition to the IRP rules, under state law rental car companies in Kansas are also required to register their vehicles in the state for fleets over 250 vehicles under K.S.A. 8-1,189.
